

Demand for Engaging Pasifika cultural competency programme is high...

74% of New Zealand's mental health and addiction services said they wanted to develop better knowledge and skills in cultural competency for working with Pasifika people.***

* More than numbers organisation workforce survey, Te Pou, 2014

Since 2010, more than

6400

health and disability workers have completed Engaging Pasifika cultural competency training

Between July 2019 and June 2020

A total of 900 Health and disability workers from 76 organisations completed Engaging Pasifika programme at 32 workshops across the country and through a digital platform, Zoom.

That's 107 more than previous year!

During Lockdown, 6 EP were delivered Live Online through Zoom to 176 health and disability workers

Participants knowledge and confidence to effectively engage with Pasifika people increase after completing EP Live workshop via Zoom

It's working

Participants' knowledge and confidence to effectively engage with Pasifika peoples increases following e-learning, and increases even further following the face-to-face workshops, including the application of skills.

(0=not at all confident, 5=extremely confident)

"The online workshop has given me a renewed sense of confidence when working with Pasifika peoples. The Va truly spoke to what's important."

"I thought I had an understanding of Pasifika people from my childhood and family experience but I now realise that there was more to know about the different cultures."

"Every little bit helps build my understanding to improve my practice and this training has been a great building block to add to that foundation of knowledge."

"The practical stories and ideas mean I will remember the information shared. I am very keen to come to a face to face session."

The health workforce completing Engaging Pasifika is diverse

Engaging Pasifika offers blended learning

Pre-workshop e-learning modules

Face-to-face full day workshops

Post-workshop access to further e-learning learning options